It all began in the 1930s, with the cultivation of a few vineyards dedicated to small-scale production, intended mainly for personal use. Generations followed one another, and the art of winemaking was passed down from father to son. Production and quality grew to such an extent that the winery gradually developed a commercial identity. Today, Fausto Bulgarini and his wife Virginia Bulgarini successfully carry forward the family passion through research, tradition, and innovation, creating a winery that is appreciated and internationally recognized.

Passion, tradition and innovation are the values that embody more than a century of winemaking history on Lake Garda, shaping both our family life and our daily work. We devote meticulous attention to every detail, starting with the care of our vineyards. Every action we take follows the rhythms of nature, and every new decision is carefully evaluated at each step to ensure nothing is ever forced. What we continue to do today is simple: we pour this passion into a production that is the synthesis of experience, heritage and innovation.

The Pasini San Giovanni winery is located in Raffa di Puegnago del Garda. Since 2009, the energy needed to power it has been supplied by the sun, thanks to a photovoltaic system installed on the winery's roof. The estate's vineyards are located in Valtènesi, the production area on the western shore of Lake Garda facing the sunrise, in Raffa di Puegnago and Picedo di Polpenazze, and in Lugana, the southern production area of the lake, in San Benedetto di Lugana and Desenzano—all managed according to organic farming principles.
