The Cadore family's bond with wine dates back to the early 1800s, when they produced Torcolato wine in the province of Vicenza. A major turning point came in 1954, when the Cadore family purchased vineyards in the province of Brescia. Here, Adriano with his brothers, moved to the region and managed the farm for many years. Since 2010, his niece Patrizia Cadore has taken over the estate with the same passion and determination as her uncles. In 2016, Giada Cadore, Patrizia's daughter, joined the winery team.

Located south of Lake Garda, on the summit of the renowned and historic hill of San Martino della Battaglia, in a privileged position overlooking the lake, stands Citari. Its relatively small size—around 30 hectares of vineyards—allows for meticulous care, beginning with the manual harvesting of the grapes at their optimal ripeness, in order to best enhance the wines' characteristics, particularly their structure and intense, fruity aromas. The wines produced are the result of a symbiotic bond with the territory: a constant fusion of tradition, past and present, innovation and the future, in the pursuit of ever-higher quality.
